

INSTITUTE FOR DOCUMENTARY STUDIES

Deposition Agreement

To be completed by Writers, Radio Producers, and Photographers

I, the undersigned, have read the above and agree to the following:

The Salt Institute for Documentary Studies plans to retain copies of the product of my participation as a part of its permanent collection. The materials may be used for exhibition, publication, presentation on the world wide web (and successor technologies), and for promotion of the Salt Institute and its activities in any medium.

It is understood that in any publication or exhibitions in which I participate, my Salt work must be credited with “Courtesy of the Salt Institute, Portland Me.”

It is understood that the Salt Institute will credit the student/alumni when it exhibits, publishes, quotes, or otherwise uses the documentary material (whenever possible and appropriate).

It is understood that students/alumni are free to sell their finished products as part of their professional career, and Salt releases any claim to this financial remuneration, unless student work is sold through a Salt sponsored function or professional account – in such cases Salt reserves the right to negotiate a reasonable and appropriate fee or commission.

I agree to protect the rights of the subjects by not releasing documentary work into commercial or political venues, such as product advertisements or political campaigns.
